Economic review

The U.S. economy expanded moderately during the six months ended May 31, 2015 (the reporting period ). While the U.S. Department of Commerce reported that third quarter 2014 U.S. gross domestic product (GDP growth was a strong 5.0%, fourth quarter 2014 GDP growth slowed to a more modest 2.2%. The deceleration in growth primarily reflected an upturn in imports, a downturn in federal government spending and moderating nonresidential fixed investment. In addition, the U.S. Department of Commerce reported that first quarter 2015 GDP growth was -0.2%. This downturn was attributed to a number of factors, including a deceleration in personal consumption expenditures, along with negative contributions from exports, nonresidential fixed investment, and state and local government spending.

Activity in the U.S. manufacturing sector also moderated during the reporting period. Based on the Institute for Supply Management s Purchasing Managers Index (PÄĮIU)S. manufacturing expanded during all six months of the reporting period (a reading below 50 indicates a contraction, whereas a reading above 50 indicates an expansion). After a reading of 55.1 in December 2014, the PMI generally decelerated over much of the reporting period and the PMI was 52.8 in May 2015.

The labor market was a moderate tailwind for the economy during the reporting period. When the period began, unemployment was 5.6%, as reported by the U.S. Department of Labor. By May 2015, unemployment was 5.5%, close to its lowest level since May 2008.

Market review

Q. How did the Federal Reserve Board (Fedii respond to the economic environment?

A. The Fed took a number of actions as it sought to meet its dual mandate of fostering maximum employment and price stability. As it has since December 2008, the Fed maintained the federal funds rate<sup>iv</sup> at a historically low range between zero and 0.25%. The Fed ended its asset purchase program that was announced in December 2012. In December 2014, the Fed said that it can be patient in beginning to normalize the stance of monetary policy. At its meeting that ended on April 29, 2015, the Fed said, economic growth slowed during the winter months, in part reflecting transitory factors. Finally, at its meeting that concluded on June 17, 2015, after the reporting period ended, the Fed said, The Committee currently anticipates that, even after employment and inflation are near mandate-consistent levels, economic conditions may, for some time, warrant keeping the target federal funds rate below levels the Committee views as normal in the longer run.

Q. What factors impacted the U.S. stock market during the reporting period?

A. The U.S. stock market gained modestly over the six months ended May 31, 2015. After treading water in December 2014, the market fell sharply in January 2015. This setback was triggered by concerns over global growth and geopolitical issues. The market then moved sharply higher in February given strong investor risk appetite. After another bout of weakness in March, the market posted positive returns in April and May. All told, for the six months ended May 31, 2015, the S&P 500 Index gained 2.97%.

Looking at the energy master limited partnership (MLP) market, over the six months ended May 31, 2015, the Alerian MLP Index seclined 8.42% compared to the 2.97% return of the S&P 500 Index. After outperforming the broader market for the first half of 2014, the Alerian MLP Index sold off as oil prices collapsed from above $100 per barrel to the March 2015 lows of around $40 per barrel. The correction in the index surprised many investors given the fee-based nature of MLPs. While the speed and magnitude of the decline were noteworthy, it is worth remembering that MLP stocks entered the oil correction at all-time highs and these demanding valuations left MLPs vulnerable. Given a precipitous decline in oil prices, we have witnessed a reduction in capital expenditures, starting in the Exploration and Production (E&P) segment of the market. This, in turn, has caused many management teams of midstream MLPs to lower their own growth forecasts. In the short term, MLP stocks may continue to fluctuate. But, over the long term, we believe MLP share prices will be driven by the companies fundamentals and their ability to grow distributions to investors. Despite the collapse in oil prices, we expect MLPs will continue to grow their distributions in 2015 and beyond. Our view that the MLP landscape will continue to evolve and expand over the long-term remains unchanged.

Performance review

For the six months ended May 31, 2015, ClearBridge Energy MLP Opportunity Fund Inc. returned -4.26% based on its net asset value ( NAV<sup>ii</sup>) and -6.66% based on its New York Stock Exchange ( NYSE ) market price per share. The Lipper Energy MLP Closed-End Funds Category Average returned -8.12% over the same time frame. Please note that Lipper performance returns are based on each fund s NAV.

During this six-month period, the Fund made distributions to shareholders totaling $0.73 per share. As of May 31, 2015, the Fund estimates that all of the distributions constituted a return of capital.* The performance table shows the Fund six-month total return based on its NAV and market price as of May 31, 2015. Past performance is no guarantee of future results.

RISKS: All investments are subject to risk, including the risk of loss. MLP distributions are not guaranteed and there is no assurance that all distributions will be tax deferred. Investments in MLP securities are subject to unique risks. The Fund s concentration of investments in energy-related MLPs subjects it to the risks of MLPs and the energy sector, including the risks of declines in energy or commodity prices, decreases in energy demand, adverse weather conditions, natural or other disasters, changes in government regulation, and changes in tax laws. Leverage may result in greater volatility of NAV and the market price of common shares, and increases a shareholder s risk of loss. The Fund may make significant investments in derivative instruments. Derivative instruments can be illiquid, may disproportionately increase losses, and have a potentially large impact on Fund performance. The Fund may invest in small-capitalization or illiquid securities, which can increase the risk and volatility of the Fund.

All investments are subject to risk including the possible loss of principal. Past performance is no guarantee of future results. All index performance reflects no deduction for fees, expenses or taxes. Please note that an investor cannot invest directly in an index.

The information provided is not intended to be a forecast of future events, a guarantee of future results or investment advice. Views expressed may differ from those of the firm as a whole.

The Russell Midcap represents approximately 31% of the total market capitalization of the Russell 1000 companies.
- ix The Russell 3000 Growth Index measures the performance of the broad growth segment of the U.S. equity universe. It includes those Russell 3000 Index companies with higher price-to-book ratios and higher forecasted growth values. (A price-to-book ratio is the price of a stock compared to the difference between a company s assets and liabilities.)
- x The Russell 3000 Value Index measures the performance of the broad value segment of the U.S. equity universe. It includes those Russell 3000 Index companies with lower price-to-book ratios and lower forecasted growth values.
- xi The Alerian MLP Index is a composite of the fifty most prominent energy master limited partnerships (MLPs) and is calculated using a float-adjusted, capitalization-weighted methodology.
- xii Net asset value (NAV) is calculated by subtracting total liabilities, including liabilities associated with financial leverage (if any), from the closing value of all securities held by the Fund (plus all other assets) and dividing the result (total net assets) by the total number of the common shares outstanding. The NAV fluctuates with changes in the market prices of securities in which the Fund has invested. However, the price at which an investor may buy or sell shares of the Fund is the Fund s market price as determined by supply of and demand for the Fund s shares.

xiii Lipper, Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Reuters, provides independent insight on global collective investments. Returns are based on the six-month period ended May 31, 2015, including the reinvestment of all distributions, including returns of capital, if any, calculated among the 23 funds in the Fund s Lipper category.
