On April 25, 2016, Evoke Pharma, Inc. (the "Company") announced that it has successfully completed patient enrollment in its pivotal Phase 3 clinical trial of EVK-001, its patented nasal delivery formulation of metoclopramide for the relief of symptoms associated with acute and recurrent diabetic gastroparesis in women.

The four-week, U.S. multicenter, randomized, double-blind, placebo-controlled Phase 3 clinical trial is evaluating the efficacy, safety and population pharmacokinetics of EVK-001 in adult female subjects with diabetic gastroparesis. The primary endpoint is the change from baseline in symptom score at week 4 utilizing a proprietary Patient Report Outcome (PRO) instrument.

In some cases, you can identify forward-looking statements by terms such as "may," "will," "should," "expect," "plan," "anticipate," "could," "intend," "target," "project," "contemplates," "believes," "estimates," "predicts," "potential" or "continue" or the negatives of these terms or other similar expressions. The inclusion of forward-looking statements should not be regarded as a representation by the Company that any of its plans will be achieved. Actual results may differ from those set forth in this report due to the risk and uncertainties inherent in the Company's business, including, without limitation: the inherent risks of clinical development of EVK-001 and completion of the Phase 3 trial as well as potential delays in any other clinical trials and studies; the Company is entirely dependent on the success of EVK -001, for which it has commenced a Phase 3 clinical trial and male companion trial, and the Company cannot be certain that it will be able to obtain regulatory approval for, or successfully commercialize, EVK -001; the results observed in female patients with symptoms associated with acute and recurrent diabetic gastroparesis in the Company's Phase 2b clinical trial of EVK-001 may not be predictive of the safety and efficacy results in the Phase 3 clinical trial; and other risks detailed in the periodic reports the Company files with the Securities and Exchange Commission. You are cautioned not to place undue reliance on these forward-looking statements, which speak only as of the date hereof, and the Company undertakes no obligation to revise or update this report to reflect events or circumstances after the date hereof.
