Customers the winners from Coles Myer - Shell alliance

Coles Myer Ltd (CML) and Shell today announced a commercial alliance designed to provide their customers with Australia's biggest and most convenient discount fuel offer.

The Alliance, when fully rolled-out, will see a CML subsidiary become the operator of Shell's core retail property network of 584 service stations across Australia.

Coles Myer will set pump prices as well as offer CML customers fuel discounts. Both members of the Alliance have a shared interest in maintaining competitive pump prices as this is critical in driving sales.

The Alliance is planned to begin in July 2003 at more than 150 sites in Victoria. Given a successful Victorian rollout, the Alliance is expected to be progressively extended nationwide by mid calendar 2004.

Shell will supply fuel products and service station properties and the sites will be branded both Coles Express and Shell. CML will purchase the rights to operate Shell sites from Shell multi-sites franchisees for a total amount less than $100 million.

Coles Myer Chief Executive Officer John Fletcher said: "We will be offering our customers a fuel discount when they make purchases over a certain amount at Coles, Bi-Lo and Liquorland. When the Alliance is fully rolled out, the discount will be available at a large national network of conveniently located petrol stations throughout Australia. The vast majority of the stations will be very close to our supermarkets, offering great convenience for our customers.

"The discount offer for our supermarket customers can be summarised as: high quality fuel at discount prices from a large number of sites in great locations," Mr Fletcher said.

The Alliance also creates a significant new business opportunity for Coles Myer in convenience stores. Mr Fletcher said Coles Myer would be applying its retail expertise and economies of scale to these operations.

The Alliance will contribute to CML in excess of $3 billion in additional annual sales when fully rolled out. The combined impact of the new fuel and convenience store business will be earnings per share positive in the 2004 financial year.

Mr Fletcher said the Alliance gave CML a fast and cost effective fuel rollout with substantially less investment than if it were starting a greenfields business.

"Coles Myer's extension into petroleum and convenience store retailing will complement our existing grocery retail business, create and drive sales, and reward customers for shopping with us," Mr Fletcher said.

"The Alliance will see the creation of a new petrol and convenience store division within Coles Myer. The vast majority of the existing franchisees' staff are expected to become part of that division, providing expertise on the ground from day one."

Shell Vice President Retail Marketing Asia Pacific/Middle East, Bruce Rosengarten, said the Alliance brought together Australia's most preferred fuel brand with one of Australia's largest retailers.

"The Alliance is a great match of retail and petroleum industry expertise - it will provide a very attractive consumer offer," Mr Rosengarten said.

"We will provide customers with exactly what they want - high quality fuels sold at competitive prices from convenient locations.

"On full rollout, motorists will have easy access to a broad national network where more than 80 per cent of Coles and Bi-Lo supermarkets are within 5 kilometres of an Alliance site. In capital cities, the average is 90 per cent.

"Most importantly, these sites are well known to millions of Australians as the home of highly respected fuel brands including Shell Optimax.

"This Alliance will be a pro-competitive initiative which will extend the availability of fuel discount offers to more consumers."

Shell Australia Chairman Tim Warren said the Alliance was a leading initiative for Shell and clearly demonstrated the company's commitment to maintaining a significant retail presence in Australia.

The Alliance is subject to ACCC approval.

Fact Sheet 1

How will the alliance work

- The Alliance between Coles Myer Ltd (CML) and Shell involves a wholly owned subsidiary of CML becoming the operator of Shell's core retail property network of 584 service stations.
- CML will purchase the rights to operate Shell sites from multi site franchisees for a total amount less than $100 million.
- It is planned to commence at more than 150 service stations in Victoria in July 2003. Given a successful Victorian rollout, a national rollout is expected to be completed by mid calendar 2004.
- The service stations will be co-branded Coles Express and Shell.
- The CML subsidiary will operate these service stations and directly employ the service station staff under a newly established Petrol and Convenience Store Division.
- CML will also introduce a fuel discount offer to its Coles, Bi-Lo and Liquorland customers that will provide a cents per litre discount off already competitive pump prices.
- Discounts will be offered to Coles, Bi-Lo and Liquorland customers.
- Both members of the Alliance have a shared interest in maintaining competitive pump prices - this is critical in driving sales.
- Using its retail expertise, CML will continue to develop a quality convenience store offer.

- CML will set fuel and shop prices at each of the service stations it operates.
- Shell will be the exclusive fuel supplier and provide the service station property.

Fact Sheet 2

How customers will be the winners

When the Alliance is fully rolled out:

- Coles Myer customers will receive a cents per litre discount on fuel purchased from Alliance sites. Discounts will be offered to Coles, Bi-Lo and Liquorland customers.
- The discount will apply when customers pass a purchase threshold at Coles, Bi-Lo and Liquorland and will be redeemable when they produce their docket at an Alliance service station. (Note: the spend threshold and the size of the discount may vary.)
- Alliance service stations will be conveniently located - more than 80% of CML supermarkets (Coles and Bi-Lo) will be within 5km of an Alliance site.
- Alliance customers will benefit from high quality Shell fuels provided at already competitive pump prices from the conveniently located national network of 584 service stations.
- The Alliance will provide a comprehensive national network so Coles Myer's food and liquor customers have the opportunity to receive a discount on fuel when they travel throughout Australia.

From day one of the Alliance:

- CML customers will have access to highly respected Shell fuel brands including Shell Optimax at Alliance sites.
- Fly Buys customers will receive Fly Buys points at CML supermarkets and for fuel and convenience stores purchases at Alliance sites.
- CML will use its retailing experience and economies of scale to provide a quality convenience store offer.
- Customers will be able to continue to use their Shell Card at Alliance sites. However, Shell Card customers will not be entitled to receive the CML fuel discount as they already have a specially contracted fuel price with Shell which recognises their significant purchase volumes.

Fact Sheet 3

How grocery and petrol retailing competition will increase

- The Alliance will be pro-competitive and extend the availability of fuel discount offers to more consumers.
- Alliance service stations will continue to have competitive pump prices which are viewed as critical to attracting and retaining customers.
- A significant additional benefit to consumers is the fuel discount offer which will be available to Coles, Bi-Lo and Liquorland supermarket customers.
- Shell's wholesale fuel supply arrangements to other commercial customers and independent retailers will be unaffected by the Alliance.

- The Alliance will increase competition in the supermarket sector now and in the future by allowing CML to respond directly to discount fuel programs operated by other retailers.
