cellcom israel announces appointment of chief technology officer

Netanya, Israel – August 19, 2013 – Cellcom Israel Ltd. (NYSE: CEL) (TASE: CEL) (hereinafter: the "Company"), announced today that following the previously reported resignation of Mr. Eliezer (Lipa) Ogman from office as the Company's chief technology officer, the Company's board of directors has nominated Mr. Ron Shvili as the Company's chief technology officer, effective November 1, 2013. Mr. Shvili will resume the CTO's responsibilities, after a transition period, which will begin in September, 2013.

Nir Sztern, the Company CEO said: "Ron Shvili has an extensive experience in the forefront of technology in the fields of communications, cyber and IT and will be able to contribute significantly to the development of Cellcom Israel as the leader on that front. Cellcom Israel's technologies division is a substantial asset to the Company's competitive strengths and has proven over the years its abilities in the face of new challenges and the positioning of the Company in the forefront of technology as well as operational and personnel excellence. I wish Ron success in joining Cellcom Israel's technology team."

Mr. Shvili has been an Entrepreneur in the field of cyber since the beginning of 2013, when he retired from the Israeli Defense Forces, or IDF. From 1990 to 2012 Mr. Shvili held various key managerial and technological positions in the IDF and the Israeli Ministry of Defense, or MOD, including senior positions as the Head of Electronics and Electronic Warfare division in R&D (MAFAT) directorate of the MOD and Head of the technology center of an elite IDF unit, both at the rank of Colonel, where he was responsible for the research, strategic planning, development and implementation of cutting edge technologies in the fields of communications, cyber and IT, and the operation and maintenance of the communications infrastructure and IT systems. Mr. Shvili holds B.Sc and M.Sc in Electrical engineering from Tel-Aviv University.
