Edgar Filing: ALCATEL LUCENT - Form 425

- A market leader in the United States, top foreign vendor in China, and almost doubling the size of Nokia in Latin America and Europe
- The combined company will have unparalleled innovation capabilities with Alcatel Lucent's iconic Bell Labs, Nokia's FutureWorks as well as Nokia technologies, which will stay as a separate entity with a clear focus on licensing and the incubation of new technologies.
- Together we will have a massive R&D capacity, with a spend of 4.7bn and more than 40,000 R&D employees.
- We will be able to offer the most complete mobile and fixed network offer with all-IP, cloud-based technology, supported by a strengthened Global Services organization.
- Our strengthened presence in all geographies – particularly in the United States, China, Europe and Asia Pacific – would give us the scale and reach to better serve our customers' global needs.
- We will remain headquartered in Finland, with strategic business locations and major R&D centres in France and many other countries including Germany, the United States and China

Shared Vision and culture for the Future

- Both companies share a vision of the direction in which the world of technology is heading. We share a culture of innovation, and have deep expertise in the technologies of tomorrow.
- Only a company with innovation at its core will be able to meet the next generation needs. Nokia intends to be that kind of company and now is the time for it.
- This combined company intends to be a global powerhouse of networks know-how.
- We foster a high performance culture with strong values and unwavering commitment to ethics and integrity.
- We aspire to be a great place for ongoing learning and development.

- We will continue to attract and retain the best talent.

Jobs

- Both companies have significant relevant experience of integrating businesses, and are committed to ensuring this deal is delivered in the best possible way with the lowest possible risk and in compliance with our obligations towards our employees and their representatives.
- We expect there will be some areas of overlap, and that may mean some headcount impacts, but it is too early to speculate with these as it will be 12-18 months before any decisions about the future structure and organization will be made after the required employee consultation procedures.
- This combination is about growth, and will offer exciting opportunities for our employees.
- We will continue to attract and retain the best talent, all based on our strong culture and shared values.

Next Steps

- The closing of the transaction is subject to approval by Nokia shareholders, completion of relevant works council consultations, receipt of regulatory approvals and other customary conditions.
 - We will maintain close contact with all our key stakeholders throughout the process, including our employees.
 - Until the deal closes, in the first half of 2016 at the earliest, it is business as usual and we will continue to operate as two entirely separate companies. We must not be distracted from our day-to-day jobs and continue to focus on delivering to our customers.
