CAMTEK TO VIGOROUSLY DEFEND PATENT INFRINGEMENT CLAIM FILED AGAINST IT BY COMPETITOR

MIGDAL HAEMEK, Israel Tuesday, March 1, 2005 Camtek Ltd. (NASDAQ: CAMT) announced today that a lawsuit had been filed against it last week in the District Court in Jerusalem, Israel, by its competitor, Orbotech Ltd. The claim alleges patent infringement in connection with a patent which already was the subject of earlier allegations made by Orbotech in a letter sent to Camtek in 1998, and requests both interim and permanent injunctions and other remedies, including monetary damages.

The trigger to this new lawsuit is a new illumination block alleged by Orbotech to be manufactured and marketed by Camtek. The court granted temporary injunction to Orbotech prior to hearing arguments on the merits of the motion, pending a further hearing with both parties.

Camtek is not marketing the new illumination block in question, so the temporary injunction will not have a material effect on the company's business.

Camtek is still studying the claims in the complaint, and based on its preliminary review believes that it has good defenses against them. Camtek plans to vigorously defend against this lawsuit.

Rafi Amit, Chief Executive Officer of Camtek, said: We see this as yet another in a series of attempts on the part of Orbotech to unsuccessfully protect its diminishing market share not through competition but through incessant and inappropriate use of the legal system.
